A positive note to end the year!

Award-winning Consumer advice website for all things renewable, Yougen have recognized Athena Electrical's outstanding customer service and named us Installer of the month.

Yougen aims to make it easy for the average person to learn about saving energy and generating renewable heat or electricity. The website provides practical information and common-sense advice on all aspects of energy efficiency and renewable energy, as well as helping consumers to find and choose the right local installer across the UK.

Installer of the month –Athena Electrical

When you're looking for someone to install renewables, it's vitally important you have confidence in the installer and feel comfortable with who you'll be inviting into your home.

Athena have received some outstanding recommendations which demonstrate how an installer can go above and beyond in making the installation process quick, thorough and informative for each customer.

Viv O'Brien from Athena reflects on this positive feedback:

"We are delighted that so many of our customers recognise the extra value of Athena Electrical's great customer service. Over recent years, new technologies such as battery storage and energy management have become a really important part of the service we offer and we make every effort to ensure that we recommend the most appropriate Solar and Storage solution for our customers' household requirements"
